

With Bao And Hollywood

by Ucaoimhu

For some, Christmas means picking up something, and putting away something else. These items are given by the unclued entries at the top and bottom of the grid respectively, and five Across answers will perform each of these actions before being entered into the grid. The other eight Across answers are entered normally, but the clue for each one has a cryptic part that doesn't clue one letter; these letters, in clue order, will spell out something else you can take on this occasion. (And in that spirit, all Down clues work normally, and these instructions stop here.)
